I, Adkins, Paul David , WANT TO MAKE THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT UNDER OATH:
SPC Manning had an adverse reaction to several counseling sessions. He stated he replayed in his mind of being fired from a civilian job for a minor infraction of losing a key, and claimed to transposed the experience to the counselings. SPC Manning was very concerned about being chaptered, and had evidently conducted some research on the subject. He was very worried that a chapter would mean he would lose benefits like his GI Bill. SPC Manning worked to some degree on improving an existing Microsoft Access program. The program was initially designed to track significant enemy activity, and contained historic data between 2005 and 2007. The data pertained to activity centered primarily in Radwaniyah, Yusufiyah, Mahmudiyah and the Sunni triangle south of Baghdad, and included coalition and enemy BDA statistics. The program was not used to actively collect intelligence when PFC Manning modified it. He hoped to improve its performance and make it a reliable backup system in case our tracker in theater failed or was unreliable.

In approximately DEC 09, PFC Manning received a package from his father, I think for his birthday. The package contained a DVD player and possibly a card. Receipt of the package obviously upset PFC Manning, though I do not recall specific symptoms.

of distress. He said adamantly that we would not use the gift, and intended to sell it at the first opportunity. He never removed it from its packaging or took it to his room. I am unsure to whom he sold the package.

I was concerned ~~for~~ PFC Manning suffered from a kind of dissociative identity disorder due to seemingly instantaneous shifts in mood and demeanor, often after certain stimuli was introduced to him. Based on my discussions with him, I also believed he may have suffered from domestically-based PTSD. I shared these concerns on several occasions w/ BHU. His doctor stated PFC Manning more likely suffered from a form of personality disorder, an illness very difficult to treat without cooperation from the patient. In approximately FEB 10, PFC Manning seemed to become very excited and agitated with certain personal stock investments. He claimed he was losing a lot of money due to a downturn in the market. During this period of approximately two to three weeks, he spent a disproportionate amount of time on NIPR during work hours, checking their status. re
